Legal notice

The software used performs calculations on the basis of more than the two decimal places displayed. Minor discrepancies cannot be ruled out due to further calculations using published results.

The value of a unit is calculated by dividing the entire value of the investment fund inclusive of its income by the number of units. The total value of the investment fund is calculated on the basis of the current market prices of the securities, money market instruments and subscription rights in the fund plus the value of the fund's financial investments, cash holdings, credit balances, receivables and other rights net of its payables. That value will be calculated by the custodian bank.

The net assets are calculated in accordance with the following principles:

- a) The value of assets quoted or traded on a stock exchange or other regulated market shall be determined, in principle, on the basis of the most recently available price.
- b) Where an asset is not quoted or traded on a stock market or another regulated market or where the price for an asset quoted or traded on a stock market or another regulated market does not appropriately reflect its actual market value, the prices provided by reliable data providers or, alternatively, market prices for equivalent securities or other recognized market valuation methods shall be used.

Raiffeisen KAG calculates performance based on the published fund price, using the OeKB methodology. Individual costs – such as transaction fees, the subscription fee (not exceeding 0.00 %), the redemption fee (not exceeding 0.00 %) or custody charges of the investor – and taxes are not included in the performance calculation. These would reduce the performance if they were included. Past value is not a reliable indicator of the fund's future performance.

Dear unitholder,

Raiffeisen Kapitalanlage-Gesellschaft m.b.H. is pleased to present its semi-annual fund report for Raiffeisen Sustainable Solid for the reporting period from Jun 1, 2021 to Nov 30, 2021. The accounting is based on the price calculation as of Nov 30, 2021.

Fund investment policy report

The fund invests in equities and bonds of companies which focus on sustainability and have above-average ratings in terms of social and environmental criteria. In addition to a favorable sustainability assessment, the selected companies must also have attractive financial valuations. In the reporting period, the fund followed a positive development.

Global bonds segment

Accounting for an average of around 10 % of the overall fund, the US dollar-denominated bonds that had been added to Raiffeisen Sustainable Solid made a significantly positive contribution to income in the reporting period, which continued to be defined by the COVID-19 crisis, the FED's extensive bond buying program, the start of tapering process and a sharp rise in inflation rates. This was primarily due to the US dollar, which firmed up substantially against the euro in the period from June 2021 to the end of November 2021. Bond prices followed a number of different trends. Due to rising interest rate expectations, short and medium-term maturities suffered losses as yields were going up, whereas longer maturities posted price gains. The development went hand in hand with a significant flattening of the interest rate curve. This applied to bonds issued by supranational organizations and agency issuers, mortgage bonds, bank bonds and corporate bonds in the top rating classes. The yield differentials between these non-government bonds and US government bonds increased towards the end of the reporting period. Thanks to significant inflows into the fund and hence into the global segment, US dollar bonds were regularly purchased on both the primary and the secondary market. The interest rate risk remained relatively stable throughout the reporting period, with derivatives also being used for control purposes.

Euro bonds segment

The period under review was shaped by more volatile but slightly declining yields on government bonds of the European core zone on the one hand, and on the other by a sometimes significant spread increase on corporate bonds towards the end of the reporting period. Until November 2021, the defining factors in the period under review not only consisted of the economic recovery from the low points recorded in H1 2020 and the central banks' commitment to provide further substantial support for the foreseeable future, but also the recent significant increase in inflation rates.

Initially, corporates were subject to very low volatility. Spreads only began to widen in November 2021. At first, this was due to surging inflation fears and the imminent scaling back of stimulus measures by all major central banks, with insecurity regarding the Omicron variant subsequently compounding the situation. Swap rates went up in response, affecting the entire segment of quasi-government securities and covered bonds and widening their spreads against German government bonds. The segment delivered a slightly negative performance in the period under review. On the one hand, this was due to a widening among all spread products. The addition of swap-correlated products to the segment had a clearly negative effect as the selection of these higher-yielding instruments could not replicate the performance of German government bonds, for example. In an environment of declining government bond yields, the result also suffered slightly due to the partial hedging of yields with German interest rate derivatives. The conservative approach in the corporate segment was slightly advantageous in this environment, as the focus on medium-term maturities and the low weighting of long maturities had a positive impact due to the overall steepening of credit curves. At the end of the period, the corporates quota amounted to approx. 48 %. The duration of the euro bond segment remained below average, amounting to approx. 4.4 years at the end of the period.

Equities segment

The fund's equities segment remains broadly diversified and invests in companies which operate in developed markets in a particularly responsible and sustainable manner. Investments continue to focus on Europe and North America, while Japan plays a relatively minor role. The main international stock markets realized significantly positive performances in the period under review. Once again, the dominant subjects in the last few months were the global coronavirus crisis and its economic impact. The crisis also led to supply chain delays and interruptions, placing a temporary strain on scores of companies. Rising energy prices and the associated rising inflation rates prompted the main central banks to initiate an exit from their bond buying programs and hold out prospects of interest-rate hikes in the near future. At the sector level, the picture was predominantly positive. The strongest positive contributions to the overall performance were made by IT and healthcare, slightly negative contributions were provided by chemical companies and basic consumer stocks. At the individual stock level, securities such as Merck, Keysight Technologies and Novo Nordisk fared particularly well. Johnson Matthey, Scatec and Henkel occupied the opposite end of the performance scale. IT, industry and healthcare accounted for the strongest weightings in the fund's equities segment. The energy, real estate and utilities sectors had the lowest weightings. The fund's activities in its equities segment were shaped by profit-taking, measures to optimize risk/return perspectives and not least by changes to the sustainability assessment for individual securities.
